Sir: Referring to the note of Mr. Laugworthy, Cashier Southwestern National Bank complaining of inability to get satisfactory answers to requests for cents, I have to say, that we never register orders for minor coins except for delivery by Express, and we never deliver coin in the city.

I have further to say that I have made inquiry of Mr. Reidy, my clerk, who says

That the runner of the Southwestern RR. called for cents recently, and was given Fifty Dollars. He asked if he could deposit money for Union Coins for the bank, and was politely informed that we take no deposits for delivery in the city. There was no fiction on that occasion, but the money was handed over cheerfully and the refusal to receive the deposit couched in pleasant language.

Had Mr. Langer been willing to accord to this office a courteous reception of our statement as true, it seems to me that there would have been no loss of comity between the bank and your subordinates.

I trust that the facts coming from yourself may heal the breach - if there be any breach.

Sir:

Referring to the note of Mr. Langworthy, Cashier Southwestern National Bank complaining of inability to get satisfactory answer to requests for cents, I have to say, that we never register orders for minor coins except for delivery by Express, and we never deliver coin in the city.

I have further to say that I have made inquiry of Mr. Reidy, my Clerk, who says that the runner of the Southwestern N.B. called for cents recently, and was given Fifty Dollars. He asked if he could deposit money for Minor Coins for the bank, and was politely informed that we take no deposits for delivery in the city. There was no friction on that occasion, but the money was handed over cheerfully and the refusal to receive the deposit couched in pleasant language.

Had Mr. Langworthy been willing to accord to this office a courteous acception of our statement as true, it seems to me that there would have been no loss of courtesy between the bank and your subordinates.

I trust that the facts coming from yourself may heal the breach – it there is any breach.

Very Respectfully,
M.H. Cobb
Cash.
